- 3) Click Register. Then this screen will appear.

- 4) Enter your name, company if it applies and your serial number. If you have copied the serial number to your clipboard, it will automatically paste into the correct field. Click Register. Your software will begin the registration process.

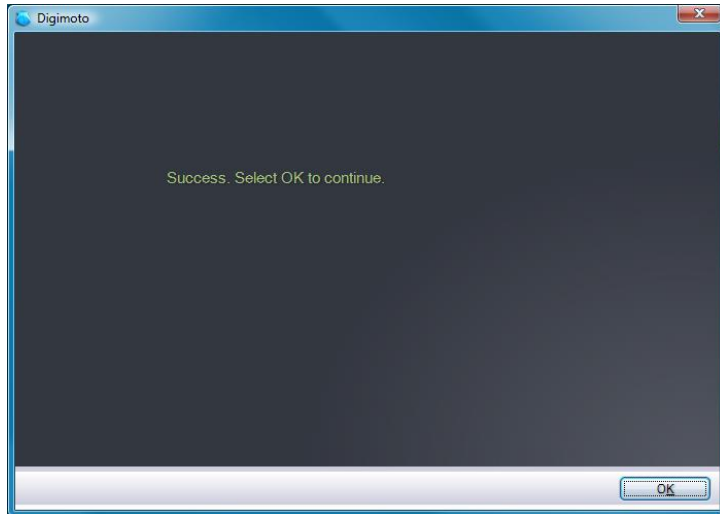

- 5) When it finishes, you will be asked to activate with this screen. It is best to choose the Activate Online option as this will allow you to deactivate Digimoto software by yourself in the future if you need to Upgrade your Operating system, Make major hardware changes to your computer, or move the software to a new computer.

- 6) At this point you will be notified that the software supports multiple machine profiles. If you are only registering for the first time you may choose the Primary Machine. If you have already registered once, and have not Deactivated that registration, you may use the Secondary Machine. This allows you to register your desktop and laptop with the same license, or to reregister a second time if your computer crashed and you needed to make changes and it is asking for you to register a second time.

7) The next screen you see should tell you that activation has been successful.

8) Digimoto software should now open.
